ABOUT BACK FOR BUSINESS

Back for Business is an initiative to foster and support entrepreneurial activity among returned emigrants or those returning to live in Ireland. The development programme is aimed at assisting them to start and develop a business. It addresses the challenges that all early stage entrepreneurs face, with a particular focus on the additional barriers and challenges faced by those who have been out of the country for some time.

Back for Business is based on a model of peer support, entrepreneurs supporting entrepreneurs. This approach is well proven as being effective in bringing about increased motivation and confidence among entrepreneurs and having a positive impact on the development of their new business.

The initiative is run over six months part-time, from January to June. It provides the opportunity for up to 50 committed early-stage entrepreneurs from across the country to take part.

Back for Business has been developed and is delivered by Fitzsimons Consulting. Thanks to the support of the Department of Foreign Affairs and the voluntary contribution of time by the Lead Entrepreneurs, there is no charge to those who are selected to participate.

WHO IS IT FOR?

I would recommend the Back for Business programme to anyone looking for guidance, support, validation, and a professional network of people who have walked in your shoes.

Kim Whyte,
Pawpear

Back for Business is for returned emigrants who have lived abroad for at least a year and have returned to Ireland within the last three years, or those currently living abroad who are planning to return to live in Ireland in the near future.

Their experience of living and working abroad will often bring significant advantages for starting a business, such as having a strong network of international contacts, fluency in foreign languages and greater cultural understanding of foreign markets.

Suitable applicants will be (i) those who have recently started a new business in Ireland, either on their own or with another business partner; (ii) are at an advanced stage of setting up a business and expect to generate sales in the next 12 months; or (iii) are becoming/have become entrepreneurs through the acquisition of an existing business. If the business is newly established, it will not have generated sales before 2021. If acquired, it will not have been acquired before this date.

In respect of the business whether new or acquired, the returned emigrant will be a major shareholder and key decision maker in the venture. Furthermore, they will have the ambition and expectation of becoming an employer of others within three years. There is no restriction on the sector in which the new business is focussed.

HOW TO APPLY

Those interested in participating in the next Back for Business cycle should register their interest on www.backforbusiness.com in the first instance and they will be sent a link to the application form by email as soon as the call for applications opens later in the year.

Back for Business has been an essential part of our relocation and start-up in Ireland. The Lead Entrepreneur and group offered a safe space and instant support network exactly when we needed it.

SELECTION PROCESS

There are usually many more applications from those wishing to participate on a cycle of Back for Business than there are places available. Accordingly, the selection process is competitive. The Lead Entrepreneurs are central to the selection of successful candidates. They seek those who are prepared to fully engage with the initiative over its six months duration; demonstrate a determination to advance their fledgling businesses; are prepared to work hard in pursuit of their entrepreneurial goals; and expect to become employers.

There will be up to 50 places available on the next cycle.

The application process is straightforward, however. No interview or pitch is involved. The Lead Entrepreneurs will meet after the closing date to assess the applications received and candidates will be notified shortly afterwards.

WHAT'S INVOLVED?

The Back for Business initiative is a tailored entrepreneurial development programme. It is based on peer support – entrepreneurs supporting entrepreneurs.

The applied learning model involves a series of round table interactive sessions that are facilitated by volunteer Lead Entrepreneurs, who have experience of successfully starting and growing a business. The sessions are focused on the achievement of goals and milestones and the exploration of relevant themes. The Lead Entrepreneurs will work with groups of about eight participants each in a series of round table sessions, supporting them to address the challenges they face in starting, developing and positioning their business for sustainability and growth.

The cycle starts with a Launch Forum in Dublin at which the first round table will also be held. All those selected for participation are expected to attend.

Participants will then meet with their groups and Lead Entrepreneurs in four separate round table sessions between February and May. All sessions will be held at a location convenient to the Lead Entrepreneur. If necessary, one of the round tables will be held remotely for those not yet returned to Ireland. The dates and locations of these three and a half hour sessions will be agreed with the Lead Entrepreneur on the first day.

KPMG will facilitate, on a voluntary basis, a number of workshops for selected participants, as well as for those in the Back for Business community.

A workshop will also be organised which will provide an opportunity for participants to hear from representatives of the development agencies about the various supports available.

Selected candidates are expected to attend all events.

The roundtable sessions provided me and my business with accountability, support, peer-to-peer learning and invaluable mentorship from the Lead Entrepreneurs.

Barry Prost, Rent a Recruiter

Areas covered in the course of the programme will include: Establishing Good Foundations; Knowing and Reaching Your Customer; Funding, KPIs and Financial Management, and Roadmap to Progress your Business.

Developing new networks on their return to Ireland is a key challenge for returned and returning emigrants. Accordingly, whenever possible, we will provide networking opportunities to participants.

The cycle finishes with a celebration in June held in Dublin, followed by a Community Forum the following November.

PREVIOUS PARTICIPANTS

Following the successful completion of five cycles of Back for Business, the Department of Foreign Affairs is once again supporting the initiative in its drive to promote entrepreneurial activity among the community of returned and returning emigrants.

Thirty-eight participants completed Back for Business 5. They had spent an average of eleven years out of Ireland. Networking and re-establishing contacts was the barrier most frequently cited by applicants, when asked to identify what for them constituted the main barriers that posed a challenge to them returning from abroad to develop a business in Ireland. This barrier is very unique to this group of entrepreneurs.

In recognition of this situation, the Department of Foreign Affairs is supporting the development of a Back for Business Community for previous participants to continue their developmental growth and facilitate them networking with each other.

The progress made by participants over the course of the programme gives a flavour of their experience and of their progress.

- All who completed Back for Business 5 were very positive in their end of cycle feedback. Virtually all felt nearer to achieving their ambitions and would recommend the programme to others.
- At the start of the cycle, 47% were pre-revenue. Over the course of the programme a further seven began to trade. At the end of the cycle almost three quarters were trading (74%) with others planning to generate sales in the coming months.
- By the end of the cycle, the combined turnover of the group had increased by 107% to €3.1million and there were 32 more employees.
- One of the advantages of time spent out of Ireland is contacts developed internationally. At the start of Back for Business eight of the participants already had some export sales. There were a further six first time exporters over the course of the cycle. The strong export orientation is evident with the majority expecting to have customers in export markets in three years time.

SPONSORS

The Back for Business initiative is funded by the Department of Foreign Affairs. Its objective is to encourage a greater level of entrepreneurial development among emigrants who have recently returned or are returning to live in Ireland in the near future. Following a competitive tendering process, the Back for Business initiative, as developed by Fitzsimons Consulting, was selected as most suitable to achieve the stated objectives. It is designed to positively and effectively tap into the entrepreneurial talent of returned and returning emigrants and to equip these early stage entrepreneurs with the knowledge, confidence and networks to successfully start and develop sustainable businesses.

“Back for Business was designed to help returning emigrants bring their business ideas to life back in Ireland. Since 2019, it has helped numerous aspiring entrepreneurs along the road to realising their ambitions. The participants have come from across this island. Likewise, the economic benefits have been geographically widespread. I commend the enthusiasm and focus of the participants. I also commend the Lead Entrepreneurs, who give essential guidance and experience on a voluntary basis. Together, participants and Lead Entrepreneurs have started many stories of achievement and growth. I am confident that we will see more in this new cycle, and I warmly wish the best of success to all.”

Shayne Murphy,

‘Participating on Back for Business increased my network enormously and taught me invaluable lessons about running a business. The main thing I’ve learned is to focus on working on the business rather than in the business’.
